

JASON C.
MILLER

Bio

Jason C. Miller is an in-house attorney handling commercial and general litigation. Prior to going in-house, Mr. Miller practiced in Michigan and Colorado as a commercial and general litigator representing clients in state and federal courts in a variety of matters, including general civil, real estate, constitutional, and tax litigation. After law school, he clerked for Hon. Deborah L. Cook of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit. He has written numerous legal articles and one book on topics like legal education, legal ethics, election law, media law, technology law, constitutional law, and products liability.